We provide the customer with many services, where they can send the problem they want to solve and we communicate with them to resolve it. Admin can see users by their email, password, and ID, and it is normal for them to see their data. Admin can also access requests, respond to them, approve them, and communicate with the customer for inquiries. Lastly, admin can log out. As for the user, they register their data, then they can see their data and send the problems they are facing and want to solve. Once sent, the user can view all the requests that have been sent, and, finally, log out.
